Rue Catinat, Tu Do and Dong Khoi Street

Vietnamese Street Coffee

DONG KHOI Street is one of Ho Chi Minh City's most glamorous thoroughfares and a major landmark in the heart of this city. Known initially as Rue Catinat under French colonial times, it later came to be known as Tu Do Street and eventually to DONG KHOI Street after reunification in 1975. This is a street famous among locals as well as tourists for its rich colonial buildings and numerous traditional shops.

DONG KHOI or 'TOTAL UPRISING' is a nationalist movement in the 1950's and 1960's that spurred the Vietnamese people to reunite their motherland. This movement began in the southern province of Ben Tre and holds a special significance to the founders of our DONG KHOI CAFE concept.

An essential part of the Vietnamese food and beverages experience is the unique Vietnamese coffee culture. Introduced initially by the French colonial rulers, Vietnamese coffee culture has today become an essential part of life in Vietnam.

At DONG KHOI CAFE, we bring the authentic Vietnamese coffee experience in both strong hot and iced Vietnamese coffee as well as in the unique variations like egg coffee, coconut coffee and many more variations. We also bring our traditional Vietnamese tea selection and unique fresh juices.

Vietnamese Egg Coffee (Cà Phê Trứng) is a unique and indulgent coffee that originated in Hanoi, Vietnam. It combines the rich, bold flavors of Vietnamese coffee with a creamy, sweet egg custard foam, creating a luxurious and memorable beverage.

Vietnamese egg coffee is a very special type of coffee and attracts many customers because of its "strange" flavor and the "unbelievable" combination of eggs and coffee.

PHỞ

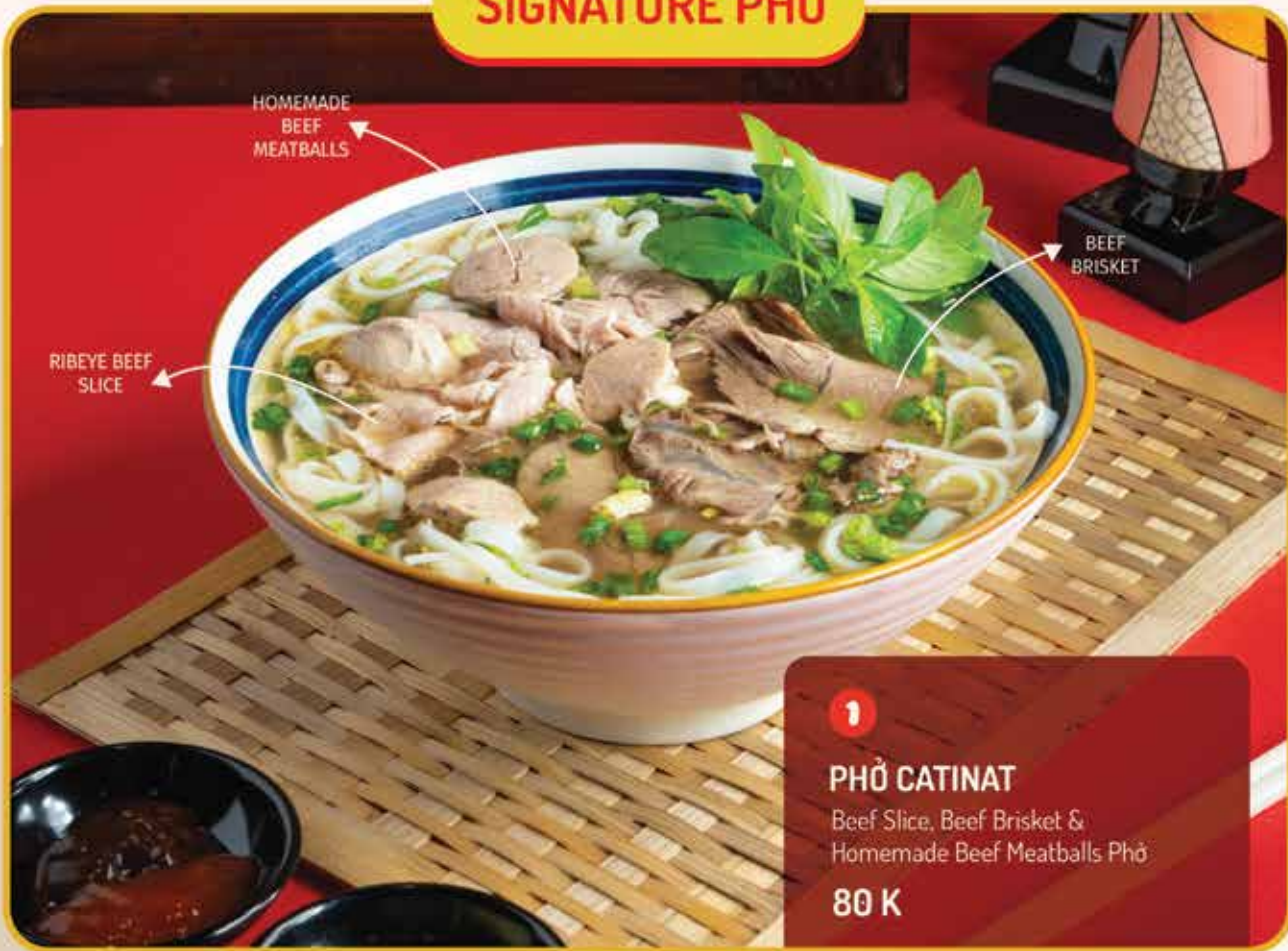

KWETIAU VIETNAM
— VIETNAMESE NOODLE SOUP —

Phở is a traditional Vietnamese noodle soup known for its aromatic, flavorful broth and fresh ingredients. It's typically made with a clear, savory broth—often beef or chicken—combined with rice noodles, herbs, and thinly sliced meat. Beef phở or chicken phở are the most common varieties, with beef often including cuts like brisket, flank, or meatballs.

Phở is traditionally enjoyed as a breakfast dish in Vietnam, though it's now popular globally and eaten at all times of the day.
